

Today Was Yesterday!

Hello! So, Today Was Yesterday, nice to be finally talking to you guys after hearing so much about you as a band! And I know for sure the public are just as anxious as I am to find out more stuff about you. So here's some Qs for you lot!

First things first then. What or who inspired you to form a band?

Sophee; well we heard that a sort of bad band, called the pitz started getting popular so we thought, hey! Lets give it a go!

Hannah; We used to go to a lot of gigs and stuff, and we'd always be like hey we could do that, so yeah.

Amay; we decided on a Friday night that we wanted to do something with our lives. And then we saw a poster for a band competition, we won. But we got loads of record deals from other companies so we decided which one was best and went from there!

Kat; yeah it was a Friday! Well we all love music and you should never let talent go to waste i guess. But we all wanted to make something of ourselves, we were getting bored of the same old local bands!

So why did you decide to name your first album, 'Blue skirts, Red skirts'?

Sophee; because once we were all in primark looking for a new look for the band and i found this amazing red skirt, but then Kat (bassist BTW) picked a blue one, it turned into an argument, so memorable that we thought "blue skirts, red skirts" was appropriate!

Hannah; haha, Soph I can't even say the name of our album! *laughs*

Amay; don't even ask me about anything like this I just sing.

Kat; that was the stupidest argument ever!... That turned into genius of course *laughs*
